

KLH®

PROJECT

MURRAY GROVE

LOCATION

Hackney-
London,
UK

THE WORLD'S FIRST NINE STOREY CLT BUILDING

Constructed entirely in timber, Stadthaus Murray Grove was the first nine storey cross-laminated timber residential development built in the world.

Designed by Waugh Thistleton Architects, the KLH cross-laminated solid timber panels formed a cellular structure of timber load-bearing walls, including all stairwells and lift cores, with timber floor slabs. Built in 35 days, Stadthaus Murray Grove comprise of 29 private and affordable housing.

PROJECT DETAILS

Project Dates: 2007 – 2009

KLH UK Services: Supply and Erect

Timber Volume: 926 m³

Build Period: Number 7 weeks

CARBON CALCULATION

Total stored/sequestered carbon in the KLH® – CLT for Stadthaus Murray Grove is 222.2 tonnes

AWARDS

2009 | Evening Standard Homes & Property Awards, Best New Small Development; Short listed for RIBA London Region Award; Your New Homes, Best Eco Development; Shortlisted for British Construction Industry, Best Practice Award; Shortlisted for British Construction Industry, Environmental Award; British Construction Industry, Judges' Special Award;

2008 | Shortlisted in the Hackney Design Awards; Structural Wood Award and the Offsite Construction Wood Award

2007 | Hot Property Awards, Green Homes, Silver Winner

CONTRACTOR

Telford Homes
www.telfordhomes.london/

ENGINEER

Techniker
<https://techniker.co.uk/>

ARCHITECTURE

Wagh Thistleton Architects
www.waghtistleton.com

PHOTOGRAPHY

© WillPryce
 © Sissy Slotover Smutny

TIMBER CONSTRUCTION

KLH UK Ltd.
www.klhuk.com